THE INGWELL SAGA CHAPTER 50.

We had a party in August - a month after the event - to celebrate our Golden Wedding anniversary (you may think we look far too young! - but everything is possible these days with photo editing!) The weather was kind and the party was outside in the garden – which is just as well since we wouldn't have fitted indoors. We had a great time thanks to family and friends and enjoyed it all thoroughly. We only scored 60% on the 'Mr and Mrs' quiz so it seems we will need a bit more time to get to know more about each other's likes and dislikes properly.

The picture shows us together with our special 'golden' hamper and enough beautiful, golden roses to make our garden glow

Above, we have: Bridget with Charlotte and also Lorna with Di Grimes (her other Grandma). Lorna was our question master for the 'Mr & Mrs' quiz whilst Rosie did all the introductions and Maria took most of the photos shown here.

Shaun (pictured above with Rosie and Maria) celebrated his birthday this year at a local aerodrome. No Lightnings Mk6's or Tornado's! – just Tiger Moths.

Dan and Jo in Sydney have both changed jobs: Jo is now a fund raiser and Events Manager for 'Guide Dogs for the Blind' and Dan has re-started his own business in Management Training. Sam (rare picture of him below left) continues to work hard (recruiting) and play hard (Ozzie beer)

Charlotte has taken on a marketing job (at her same school) and Shaun is heavily into cycling/spinning to help his new knee ligaments settle-in.

Mum (now 99 yrs) was poorly during November but, we're happy to say, she is now bouncing back. She told Patrick (her youngest son) that she expects him to treat her to a pub meal out (and Peroni of course) before Xmas.

We wish you all a very Happy Christmas and a Boris New Year.

Please, please call-in if ever you are down this way
